Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Oh, and it really would be fun to track those names. We need a Native American dictionary and an Inuit one to start---anyone have access to a university library? I don't, and the NY Public Library reading room is closed for this year and the next. It seems unlikely that a branch library would have such a thing---I'll check on the website.

Oh, rana, thank you for the poetry search. I thought the middle one might be Milton too, with the "he" being either Adam or Satan in Paradise Lost. No dice (and it took forever because PL hasn't yet been html'd). I'll report if I find it.
