

big changes afoot

The Urth list — 3 messages, 3 voices, 22 May 1999

<https://urth.darkrealm.vip/thread/urth/1638>

Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Ranjit Bhatnagar — 22 May 1999, 21:53

For almost a year I've been struggling to make room in my web account for the urth and whorl archives -- every two weeks or so I'd have to throw away something else to get the quota alerts to go away. I finally gave in and bought Urth its own home -- welcome to <http://www.urth.net/urth> !

It'll take me a while to get everything moved over to the new server. For now, everything is where it used to be except that you will find the Urth archives for volumes 1..26 at <http://www.urth.net/urth/archives/>
The ongoing volume 27 and all the Whorl archives are still at <http://www.urth.net/urth/archives/> and <http://www.moonmilk.com/whorl/archives/> for now.

Ranjit.

William H. Ansley — 23 May 1999, 13:52 · follows Ranjit Bhatnagar

For almost a year I've been struggling to make room in my web account for the urth and whorl archives -- every two weeks or so I'd have to throw away something else to get the quota alerts to go away. I finally gave in and bought Urth its own home -- welcome to <http://www.urth.net/urth> !

...

Ranjit.

Ranjit,

This is wonderful. Thank you.

It is all too easy for me to forget that someone is doing a great deal of work and spending a great deal of time to make the Urth and Whorl mailing lists, web sites and archives exist and function so smoothly. As with so much of the web, I have more or less been taking it for granted that these resources would just always be there, although in the back of my mind I knew this wasn't true.

So I would like to take this opportunity to say that I am very grateful that you are continuing to support this site; it has given me a great deal of pleasure and provided me with a lot of entertainment over the last few years. If there is some way I can help out, please let me know.

By the way, I really like the new format of the web page archive on the new site.

William Ansley

Mark Millman — 24 May 1999, 08:24 · follows William H. Ansley

On Sunday 23 May 1999 at 4:53 am GMT, Ranjit Bhatnagar wrote:
For almost a year I've been struggling to make room in my web account for the urth and whorl archives -- every two weeks or so I'd have to throw away something else to get the quota alerts to go away. I finally gave in and bought Urth its own home -- welcome to <http://www.urth.net/urth> !

[snip]

Ranjit.

And at 5:53 pm GMT, William Ansley replied:

Ranjit,

This is wonderful. Thank you.

It is all too easy for me to forget that someone is doing a great deal of work and spending a great deal of time to make the Urth and Whorl mailing lists, web sites and archives exist and function so smoothly. As with so much of the web, I have more or less been taking it for granted that these resources would just always be there, although in the back of my mind I knew this wasn't true.

So I would like to take this opportunity to say that I am very grateful that you are continuing to support this site; it has given me a great deal of pleasure and provided me with a lot of entertainment over the last few years. . . .

William Ansley

I can't say it any better, and so I won't try. Thank you, Ranjit. Whut he sed.

Mark Millman