There, now see?!

I did all this noodling around with the house, its four faces, the architectural styles from neo-classical to contemporary, and I was able to make some headway, or at least amuse myself. But there were all these strange angles I still couldn't quite get to form a picture.

And Robert Borski comes along to, in essence, reveal to me that the basement of the house is, in fact, Greek myth. Well Shazam! Much, much suddenly becomes clear; and I shake my head in wonderment that I couldn't see the Greek myth. Tunnel vision.

The story starts to open up, and up, and up . . .

Incredible.

Thank you Robert!
