

Digest urth.v029.n050

The Urth list — 2 messages, 2 voices, 18 Aug 2000

<https://urth.darkrealm.vip/thread/urth/2358>

Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

akt — 18 Aug 2000, 09:25

----- Original Message -----

From: <urth-errors at lists.best.com>

To: <urth at lists.best.com>

Sent: Friday, August 18, 2000 7:10 AM

Subject: Digest urth.v029.n050

Wombat asked:

Is Crowley still doing this? I had gotten the impression from some conversation that he wasn't writing films, but had retired to spend time with his daughters (one of whom, I also seem to recall, has a crippling health problem). Am I completely off-base?

If so, has he done any documentaries more recent than The Gate of Heavenly Peace? I've read the script to that one, and quite liked it. I've actually seen The World of Tomorrow, about the 1939-40 World's Fair, and it's staggeringly brilliant, and very, very Crowley.

Well, the night I did the "pre-interview" about six weeks ago, he was in town to work (all day) on a documentary. Some of these go directly to television, I gather, so you might not have heard of them. His wife, Laura, is a documentary film-maker, and in fact gave me one of hers on tape, "Fit," about the fitness industry. I haven't had a chance to watch it yet. The one she is working on now involves persons with disabilities. And yes, one of their 13-year-old twin daughters has spina bifida and will never walk, except with leg-braces and crutches. She gets around pretty well though, and certainly doesn't need a full-time "retired" parent. Besides, during the school year, both girls are in (different) schools.

-alga

Kevin J. Maroney — 18 Aug 2000, 13:46 · follows akt

At 09:25 AM 8/18/00 -0400, you wrote:

Well, the night I did the "pre-interview" about six weeks ago, he was in town to work (all day) on a documentary. Some of these go directly to television, I gather, so you might not have heard of them.

"The Gate of Heavenly Peace" was a Frontline documentary for PBS.

If you find out the names of any of his other films, let us know.

His wife,
Laura, is a documentary film-maker, and in fact gave me one of hers on tape, "Fit," about the fitness industry. I haven't had a chance to watch it yet. The one she is working on now involves persons with disabilities.

Ah.

And yes, one of their 13-year-old twin daughters has spina bifida and will never walk, except with leg-braces and crutches. She gets around pretty well though, and certainly doesn't need a full-time "retired" parent. Besides, during the school year, both girls are in (different) schools.

That clarifies matters. Thankee, alga Alice.

Wombat, a.k.a. Kevin Maroney kmaroney at ungames.com
Kitchen Staff Supervisor, New York Review of Science Fiction
<http://www.nyrsf.com>