I found a page listing documentaries funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities with the following films credited to John Crowley:

America and Lewis Hine (Daniel V. Allentuck, John Crowley, L.S.

Block--Crowley also narrated)

America Lost and Found (Lance Bird, John Crowley)

Fit: Episodes In the History of the Body (Laurie Block, John Crowley)

Pearl Harbor: Surprise and Remembrance (Lance Bird, John Crowley, Tom Johnson) All under

Heaven: Life in a Chinese Village (Carma Hinton, with Laurie Block, John Crowley)

Lance Bird was the director of _The World of Tomorrow_ and _No Place to Hide_ (about atomic war fear in the 1950s). Laurie Block is, I gather, Mrs. John Crowley.

Another page gives me this:

Fighting on Two Fronts in World War II (writers, John Crowley, Daniel V. Allentuck, Lou Potter); there was a companion book of the same title. This is about black American soldiers during WWII.

and another:

Harold Clurman : A Life of Theatre (Thomas Klein and Alan Kaplan, with John Crowley)

Crowley teaches screenwriting in the English Department at Yale. I hadn't known that.

According to a page at Yale, Crowley "was a fixer on Hava Kohav's The Restless Conscience about the German Resistance to Hitler during the Nazi period, which went on to be nominated for an Academy Award. He also wrote a script for a biography on Billy the Kid for the Learning Channel."

I'm sure there are more.
