

The Silver Chair

The Urth list — 1 messages, 1 voices, 16 Aug 2001

<https://urth.darkrealm.vip/thread/urth/2785>

Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Dan Parmenter — 16 Aug 2001, 16:57

From: "Nigel Price" <nigel.a.price at virgin.net>

On the recently aired subject of juvenile fantasy: I've been reading a variety of books to my eight year-old daughter over the past couple of years. She loved "The Hobbit" and adored the Narnia books. She thought that "The Silver Chair" was the best, and I'm not sure that she isn't right.

That's my favorite too. Puddleglum is one of my favorite characters in all fiction I'd have to say. And Jill and Eustace with their constant bickering are much more easy to relate to than say Lucy or Peter or even Edmund (who became rather boring once he reformed).

Narnia references in the popular media: I saw an episode of the Powerpuff Girls recently where the mayor of Townsville sold out to a super-criminal for "a room full of Turkish delight!"

Dan