1. The space program has been maimed to the extent of the Black Night in Monty Python's Quest for the Holy Grail.
2. I was correct there as well...

The manned program, yes. Unmanned space activity is doing pretty good for itself.

Ps. Attn: Anyone who is uninvolved, I regret coming off as boastful, arrogant, and impertinent. I was merely dissapointed with having my premonitions squashed beyond flat, and I felt that having such weighty evidence gave me some bragging/gloating rights post-thrashing...

No problem, I think you earned it.
