Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Something funny is going on with the mailing list software, and I've asked the system administrator to look into it. If you send a message that gets rejected, try again in a day or two.

It might help if everyone would please turn off their MIME or "rich text" abilities in favor of ""plain text" for Urth messages--you, Ratty, are a sinner here--as are, more forgivably, the newbies. All that formatting takes up a lot of space.

I'm using Eudora. If someone knows how to turn this off, and can give me directions, I'll be happy to do so. I cannot figure it out from what Eudora provides. I'm computer and internet illiterate.

For Eudora 5.1. In the menu bar go to tools...

Select the Options... (on a PC) or Settings... (on a Mac) item.

In the panel that comes up on the left hand side select "Styled Text"

Of the options then presented select "Send plain text only".
