

Some problems if the Pancreator/Outsider is the Holy Trinity

The Urth list — 2 messages, 2 voices, 13 Jun 2002

<https://urth.darkrealm.vip/thread/urth/3317>

Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Jerry Friedman — 13 Jun 2002, 22:48

--- Michael Straight <straight at email.unc.edu> wrote:

On Mon, 10 Jun 2002, Dan'l Danehy-Oakes wrote:

So Typhon and his brood create the _Whorl_, a place in which they can be as gods; they brutally try to suppress all memory of the religions of Urth. Yet hints of these religions creep through, so that the "Vironese Faith" rather resembles Temple Judaism, albeit with many Gods; so that the Trivigauntes have a religion very similar to Islam, except with the sexual roles reversed; and so that there is even some vague memory of the Incarnation.

I assumed that these were deliberate parodies of Islam, Judaism, Christianity, etc. by Typhon et. al.

...

The Vironese faith is not in fact that much like Judaism. They share priests sacrificing animals in a temple, but I don't remember private confession, augury, or dancing sibyls in Judaism, and of course there's no polytheism. The haruspication makes it more like the ancient Romans' religion, doesn't it?

Jerry Friedman

Andy Robertson — 17 Jun 2002, 05:26 · follows Jerry Friedman

----- Original Message -----

From: "Jerry Friedman" <jerry_friedman at yahoo.com>

The Vironese faith is not in fact that much like Judaism. They share priests sacrificing animals in a temple, but I don't remember private confession, augury, or dancing sibyls in Judaism, and of course there's no polytheism. The haruspication makes it more like the ancient Romans' religion, doesn't it?

The Vironese faith is obviously based on ancient greek religion, with some input from other Indo-European polytheisms:

The major thematic links are to the gods and goddesses in "Soldier in the Mist".

hartshorn