Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Please, please, newbies, turn off your "rich text" or html option when you reply to an urth message. Ranjit's program can't support it. If there were only one of you, I, or someone else, would ask you to do this privately, but there's an epidemic in the last few days, which makes the digest horrible to read, and I think a general plea might be more effective. What you want to send is "plain text." Only. Your address book will show you how to do it.
