The excerpt from Wizard Knight to be published in the Fall issue of Conjunctions (mentioned by Nick Gevers a while back) is available online at the Conjunctions website. Pretty impressive looking issue.

I must say that the language looks somewhat juvenile, but I get the feeling that there will be enough standard Wolfe trickiness to keep me interested. I've never read THE DEVIL IN A FOREST, so I've never seen Wolfe write to a younger audience before.

Small world. I'm a freshman at SLU's Madrid campus.

This looks very promising. When's it supposed to come out?

Does anyone have any thoughts on the quickest and easiest way to learn the essentials of Norse mythology? I need to learn the basics anyway before reading American Gods.

Actually, you really don't, but if you really want to, ... h'mmm. Check out the mythology section of a good children's library, there are always good books of Gods And Heroes there. But stay far, far away from Marvel Comics's THOR.
