

From the Cradle

The Urth list — 4 messages, 3 voices, 11 Jan 2003

<https://urth.darkrealm.vip/thread/urth/3754>

Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Ron Crown — 11 Jan 2003, 16:58

I just read this story from Greg Ketter's Shelf Life anthology (rare book lovers, N.B. the title). Good, solid Wolfe, with an amusing pun which is also a clue. It's also another example of GW's love for telling stories within the story; what's more, the stories are all from a brown book (!) containing "tales of wonder!" Recommended.

Ron Crown

Roy C. Lackey — 12 Jan 2003, 04:45 · follows Ron Crown

Ron Crown wrote:

I just read this story from Greg Ketter's Shelf Life anthology (rare book lovers, N.B. the title). Good, solid Wolfe, with an amusing pun which is also a clue. It's also another example of GW's love for telling stories within the story; what's more, the stories are all from a brown book (!) containing "tales of wonder!" Recommended.

Take a look at the credits on the back, inside flap of the dust jacket.

-Roy

Alice K. Turner — 13 Jan 2003, 10:00 · follows Roy C. Lackey

From: "Roy C. Lackey" <rclackey at stic.net>

Ron Crown wrote:

I just read this story from Greg Ketter's Shelf Life anthology (rare book lovers, N.B. the title). Good, solid Wolfe, with an amusing pun which is also a clue. It's also another example of GW's love for telling stories within the story; what's more, the stories are all from a brown book (!) containing "tales of wonder!" Recommended.

Take a look at the credits on the back, inside flap of the dust jacket.

To paraphrase Paul Simon: Don't be coy, Roy.

Enquiring minds want to know.

-alga

Roy C. Lackey — 13 Jan 2003, 20:30 · follows Alice K. Turner

alga quoted and wrote:

Ron Crown wrote:

I just read this story from Greg Ketter's Shelf Life anthology (rare book lovers, N.B. the title). Good, solid Wolfe, with an amusing pun which is also a clue. It's also another example of GW's love for telling stories within the story; what's more, the stories are all from a brown book (!) containing "tales of wonder!" Recommended.

Take a look at the credits on the back, inside flap of the dust jacket.

To paraphrase Paul Simon: Don't be coy, Roy.

Enquiring minds want to know.

Just a bit of fatherly hubris. My son, Sean, is a friend of the artist, John Picacio, who did the dust jacket illustration and design. Sean was involved with the digital photography of the art "assemblage" from which the image on the cover was made, and is acknowledged there.

-Roy