Absolutely fool-proof method for getting an ebook:

You must get access to a computer with an optical input device, preferably with a flatbed -- like, say, a scanner.

Using the computer, purchase a copy of The Wizard and one of The Knight. You can definitely get them from barnesandnoble.com or even amazon.com. Have them shipped directly to your address.

Scan both books (remember, there's text on both sides of each page!), using software to optimize character recognition. Save output into a word processor, then -- and this is the tricky part -- you have to go line by line through the scanned copy, comparing it to the printed books to ensure no errors make it through. This may take some time, but it critical to ensure that your ebook is canonical.

Finally, save the cleaned up text into your favorite electronic book-reader format. That should do it!

Hope this "helps,"

Aq
