I am really sorry, I don't have a copy of the book with me (I think I am going to have to post on this forum only when I am at home) so I can't give you text references but:

In the first story, it is mentioned that the Abos had a form of percussion they used to communicate "talking drums".

In the last story, the prisoner talks about their mad cellmate and mentions them 4 or 5 times. At one point (I can't remember the exact text I am afraid) the prisoner notes that their cell mate tapped furiously throughout the night until at last I thought I could discern my own name.

I will get text citations this evening and post them.

Greg Bates

I have not heard that one. Care to enlighten me?

For instance in 5HOC there is only a single clue that the prisoner in the room next door in the final story is the prisoner's mother.
