Apologies for the previous post, my email is being very buggy the last few days....

Just as an aside on the energy levels and Urth.

I am sure most of you are aware of this scale:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kardashev_scale

"The Kardashev scale is a method of measuring a civilization's level of technological advancement. The scale is only theoretical and in terms of an actual civilization highly speculative; however, it puts energy consumption of an entire civilization in a cosmic perspective. It was first proposed in 1964 by the Soviet Russian astronomer Nikolai Kardashev Nikolai Kardashev. The scale has three designated categories called Type I, II, and III. These are based on the amount of usable energy a civilization has at its disposal, and the degree of space colonization. In general terms, a Type I civilization has achieved mastery of the resources of its home planet, Type II of its solar system, and Type III of its galaxy "

Having first been proposed in 1964 Wolfe may well have been aware of this when writing BOTNS.
