

prophesied flood

The Urth list — 2 messages, 2 voices, 10 Jun 2010

<https://urth.darkrealm.vip/thread/urth/5632>

Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Ash Crill — 10 Jun 2010, 23:42

Typhon - or whoever - was trying to mitigate global cataclysm.

Remember, in his mind, Typhon is doing good.

There is an old idea of global floods, that sea level would rise all over the World at the same time.

There doesn't seem to be enough water for this, but back in the day the idea was seriously proposed for a while.

So if this was what was happening, building a huge wall around a large area might work for saving a significant proportion of the World's population.

I like the idea of the wall as a flood-protection barrier.

Its even possible that one of the Monarchs happened to read or hear part of The Book of The New Sun and was aware that its prophesied coming would bring a world-wide flood.

Josh Caswell — 11 Jun 2010, 01:01 · in reply to Ash Crill

I like the idea of the wall as a flood-protection barrier.

Its even possible that one of the Monarchs happened to read or hear part of The Book of The New Sun and was aware that its prophesied coming would bring a world-wide flood.

This is certainly an interesting idea, but the idea of the incredible upheaval that we witnessed in UOTNS was general knowledge, or so it seemed to me.