

This Week in Google Alerts: narrator of "The Tree Is My Hat" obit

The Urth list — 3 messages, 3 voices, 04 Aug 2014

<https://urth.darkrealm.vip/thread/urth/6597>

Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Gwern Branwen — 04 Aug 2014, 16:17

<http://www.locusmag.com/News/2014/07/lawrence-santoro-1942-2014/>

Writer Lawrence Santoro, 71, died July 25, 2014 of cancer.

Santoro's story "God Screamed and Screamed, Then I Ate Him" (2000) was a Stoker Award nominee, as was his audio drama adaptation of Gene Wolfe's "The Tree Is My Hat" (2002). Some of his short work is collected in Drink for the Thirst to Come (2011), and other books include novel Just North of Nowhere (2007) and short novel Lord Dickens's Declaration (2009). Santoro also produced the Tales to Terrify horror podcast.

The TR interview with Wolfe seems to be pretty popular.

gwern

<http://www.gwern.net>

David Stockhoff — 04 Aug 2014, 16:31 · in reply to Gwern Branwen

Unfortunate! I enjoyed "The Tree Is My Hat."

On 8/4/2014 12:17 PM, Gwern Branwen wrote:

<http://www.locusmag.com/News/2014/07/lawrence-santoro-1942-2014/>

Writer Lawrence Santoro, 71, died July 25, 2014 of cancer.

Santoro's story "God Screamed and Screamed, Then I Ate Him" (2000) was a Stoker Award nominee, as was his audio drama adaptation of Gene Wolfe's "The Tree Is My Hat" (2002). Some of his short work is collected in Drink for the Thirst to Come (2011), and other books include novel Just North of Nowhere (2007) and short novel Lord Dickens's Declaration (2009). Santoro also produced the Tales to Terrify horror podcast.

The TR interview with Wolfe seems to be pretty popular.

Marc Aramini — 05 Aug 2014, 01:56 · in reply to David Stockhoff

During the fuller award ceremony, santoro's speech was much my favorite in appreciation of Gene, talking about how Gene is a great man because that's just how he is, regardless of fame, and how Gene recommended him for an appropriate project based on some scant interaction some time before, pretty much crediting Gene with starting his career. I didn't realize he was 70.

He was a very good speaker. That was a very beautiful night.