Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Hey folks, let's have a group hug and slow down, eh?

This is a really good mailing list, probably the best "single artist" mailing list I've ever been on (single artist mailing lists are often a bit like single issue political parties - you agree with the cause, but the meetings tend to be a bit dull), literary or otherwise.

Most of the major posters have come up with some pretty damned interesting ideas, and it doesn't seem quite right to dismiss anyone's hypothesis out of hand.

So like, yeah. My job is pretty stressful these days (imagine working for a guy not unlike Typhon but with a much smaller budget and only one head) and URTH has become something of a safe haven for me.
