

Wolfe's Women

The Urth list — 1 messages, 1 voices, 01 Jul 1998

<https://urth.darkrealm.vip/thread/urth/879>

Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Tony Ellis — 01 Jul 1998, 17:46

Jim Jordan wrote:

While the modern view is that men and women are pretty much the same except for plumbing, the Christian view is that they are radically different and complementary.

That "plumbing" accounts for some pretty major differences, actually. It has been proved that men and women's brains work very differently, often using completely different parts to solve the same problems, and having wildly different areas of expertise. Greatly differing testosterone levels also make the sexes handle group and competitive situations very differently.

This is why I have no problem with Wolfe's polarisation of the sexes _in general_. The devil, as always, is in the details. :-)