Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Folks,

I'm writing to apologize in advance for a pointless note that I'll be sending to some of you. I'm going on vacation for a week, and have (I hope) set my mail program to generate an automatic response to all incoming mail. The program I'm using, however, won't allow me to exclude certain classes of message, so that anyone who writes to me will get the response whether they should or not. I have, however, set the device to generate only one response per correspondent, rather than one response to each message. So I'm sorry for sending you the pointless note, but at least you'll only see it once.
