

A fishy incident from OBW

The Whorl list — 1 messages, 1 voices, 04 Sep 2000

<https://urth.darkrealm.vip/thread/whorl/1008>

Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

stilskin — 04 Sep 2000, 13:36

When Marble sends Horn down to the boat for water in OBW, he's surprised to find fish waiting upon a rock; then even more surprised when one escapes only to return, leaping out of the water onto the stone. Horn hints that he has some idea of what's going on, but not once does he mention what I thought at first was the obvious explanation; namely, that Mucor has taken over the fish and compelled them to jump from water to stone. But then I realized Mucor is journeying to the Whorl in search of Silk at the time, so she can't be responsible (unless her mind can be in two places at once [or 3, I guess, since she remains conscious in her own body during her travels]). So that seems to leave the Mother (who I'm beginning to think is at least partly Scylla (an aside to Mr. Borski -- I'm also coming more around to a kind of compromise point of view with you; that is, Oreb seems to have been the vehicle by which Scylla has traveled to Blue. I wonder if this means that anyone who ha!

!

s witness a theophany on the Whorl carries engrams of the god or goddess manifesting at the time, engrams which can be "awakened" later?). Anyway, why would the Mother offer up these fish? It just doesn't make sense to me. I don't understand why Scylla would do it either. Can anybody help clarify this episode for me?

Falcon

www.sff.net/people/stilskin