Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

am I right in thinking that the list just got spammed by someone in Germany?
they shouldn't have been to get our email addresses directly like that, should they?

and for some Wolfe-related content - I'm currently re-reading RTTW, and I got to the section where Horn/Silk is sitting on the godling's hand. I think this has already been mentioned, but for me it beggars belief that the illustrator could have misunderstood the description of the faceless man with a hat like a claw (i.e. the godling's finger) so badly! Does noone from the publisher check this sort of thing? FWIW, I'm in agreement with those who think that Pig is a godling - I think that the coincidence of the description of his claws is too much.
