All,

This isn't really a discussion, just an observation that I've made that I thought was cool (and reflects how I'm probably thinking of SS a little too much). Those yellow crossroad signs with a black "sign of addition" before intersections: I've come to thinking of them as sort of a homage to Quadrifons, god of crossroads. At least, that's what they remind me of. Kinda fitting; that's what his name was supposed to be often substituted with, wasn't it? Yeah, my two bits.

Someone may or may not have mentioned this before -- but --

Steve's comment on Quadrifons (may or may not) have a bearing on the whole problem of Silk and the inhum. There is, you know, an established relationship of a particular kind between vampires and crossroads...
