I think "mindless giant leeches" that can fly would be a much greater threat than crocodiles.

Well, this reminds me that I wanted to mention that inhumans flying seems almost as wacky as inhumans space travel. Just how much are they supposed to weigh? What are they made of? How can they fly without bones?

Add that to the list of things in LS and SS that work a lot better if we assume low gravity... maglev cars, giant eagles, Flyers, dirigibles, SSTO landers, godlings, the towers of Green...
