Exported from an unofficial mirror of a public mailing list. Copyright in each message remains with the person who wrote it. Email addresses are obscured as `user at host`, the form the original archive published. This file was rebuilt from parsed fields rather than retained headers, so it is faithful in content but not byte-exact.

Kevin McGuire say:

This implies a lot more initiative and synthesis than I had given the monitors credit for. So, does Silk and the rest continually underestimate the monitor's powers (a not unreasonable thought) or is the monitor in the lander a bit sharper/more independent? Or was there a Monitor Directive #305

- "If an inhumani says left, go right,"?<<

Also, did the Monitor reverse the decision out of concern for the Cargo, or out of it's own sense of self-preservation?
