Dr. Gouvea,

I love Wolfe's short stories, but I confess that on those occasions when I have read an entire collection through in a day or two, I tend to get the kind of headache we normally associate with the result of eating something very cold (like an Orange Julius drink, or a milk shake) too fast. Personal weakness. So I have to limit myself on those short stories, make the book last at least a week--they are just too concentrated!
